The Frequentis Group evolves the integration of Comsoft Solutions

Frequentis Comsoft reflects a stronger and more unified approach for customers

Comsoft Solutions has been a member of the Frequentis Group since January 2016 and the two companies have further strengthened the integration of their complementary product portfolios, presenting a tighter integration with the new brand identity and offering customers further benefits when choosing its solutions.

“Since becoming part of Frequentis AG in January 2016, Comsoft Solutions GmbH has operated as part of a successful corporate group which has contributed enhanced expertise in the safety-critical environment and provided access to a strong international sales and service network. Our complementary product portfolio has always been our strength and the new company brand reflects the increased integration. This step is the logical consequence of the development so far and paves the way for further common goals and visions.”, says Gerald Enzinger, Managing Director, Frequentis Comsoft.

The name Comsoft has been well-known in the Air Traffic Management industry for almost 30 years, supplying individual solutions to air navigation service providers worldwide. Comsoft Solutions GmbH will become Frequentis Comsoft GmbH, with the evolution of the brand reinforcing the strength of the combined organisation. Managing Director Gerald Enzinger and the other members of the Executive Board remain unchanged in their functions. This change also has no influence on cooperation with business partners. All contracts remain unaffected.

The ability for the pair to offer market-leading AMHS and AIM solutions, as well as all elements of the surveillance data chain, provides customers with many advantages for the development and delivery of streamlined solutions and projects.

“Comsoft Solutions has become an integral part of the Frequentis Group over the last two years, showing its strengths to be selected for key industry contracts. We felt that after two years of intensive cooperation, the strong collaboration within the company network should be emphasised, highlighting the unified approach for our customers with the announcement of a new and combined brand. The same teams, products and ethos remain and we look forward to continued success together.” Hannes Bardach, CEO Frequentis AG.
