EUROCAE has elected Michael Holzbauer as its 20th President during the EUROCAE Symposium and General Assembly 2026 in Dublin.

Michael becomes the first Austrian President in EUROCAE history since its founding in 1963.

As Director European Affairs ATM at Frequentis, he also leads key Air Traffic Management programmes, including initiatives under SESAR (Single European Sky Aviation Research programme) and innovation activities with AIRLabs GmbH. He has served on the EUROCAE Council since 2015 and most recently held the role of Vice President.

Michael succeeds Guillaume Roger, who completed a three-year mandate as President.

"It is a great honour to be elected President of EUROCAE," says Michael Holzbauer. "Standardisation is essential for safety, interoperability, and innovation in aviation, and I look forward to supporting EUROCAE's continued success."

EUROCAE hosts around 50 Working Groups and continues to grow its global membership and standards output, reinforcing its role as a leading developer of aviation standards worldwide.

"We are delighted to welcome Michael Holzbauer as President. Together with our members and experts, we will continue to lead global aviation standardisation and deliver value to the industry," added EUROCAE Director General Anna von Groote.
