

Brad Kay

Head of Sales
Frequentis Defense Inc.

- Education Brad received his MBA from Sydney University in 1989 and his Bachelor of Electrical Engineering from the University of New South Wales in 1981.
- Career Previous roles included business development and P&L management positions in Honeywell's Aerospace and Defense business where he worked in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia and throughout Southeast Asia. Brad attended the Royal Australian Naval College and spent ten years in engineering with the Australian Navy. He migrated from Australia in 2001 to establish a US presence for C4i's voice communications systems business.
- Frequentis Brad Kay leads the sales team for Frequentis Defense, having joined Frequentis with the acquisition of a number of voice communication businesses from L3Harris. Previously he led the C4i Voice Communications business within L3Harris for North America. In this role he was responsible for sales, delivery and support of Voice Communication System (VCS) solutions for defense, homeland security, transportation and public safety customers. Brad has been with the C4i business for over 25 years.